Clinical Trialist of the Year Award: Trisha Wise-Draper M.D., Ph.D.
The Clinical Trialist of the Year award acknowledges the investigator with the greatest revenue from industry-funded clinical trials during FY 2019. We are pleased to announce that Trisha Wise-Draper M.D., Ph.D., Department of Internal Medicine, Division of Hematology and Oncology is our 2019 Clinical Trialist of the Year. Dr. Wise-Draper's clinical trial program largely focuses on novel immunotherapy combinations for Head and Neck Cancer and other solid tumors. In addition, as part of the experimental therapeutics program, she works with industry to execute first in man studies and newly developed targeted agents. Celebrate Dr. Wise-Draper at the Research Recognition Awards Program on November 21, 2019 from 4:30-7:00pm in the CARE/Crawley atrium.

Virtual Meeting on Mental and Behavioral Health.
The Collaboration Network invites you to a Virtual Meeting on Mental and Behavioral Health on Thursday, October 24, from 9-11 AM. This open forum will be streamed via WebEx and is designed for investigators, educators, healthcare providers, and members of community organizations to explore our institutional and community-wide expertise and capacity for research, education and community service in this field. Speakers include Jack Kues, PhD, Nancy Miller from 1NS, and more. The agenda and WebEx meeting information is available at: https://cctst.uc.edu/programs/cis/collaboration/mentalhealth.

UC Health Office of Clinical Research Update: Complion.
Complion, our research regulatory document platform, will soon be releasing an update that will contain a “study start-up” binder type. These new binders are meant to be used to house initial study documents from the sponsor before activating a study binder. Please be on the lookout for an email detailing this functionality further or join us for a Complion Office hour. We have changed the frequency of Complion office hours from weekly to every other week. We encourage you to join if you are interested in learning more about the system or have questions. Contact Zachary.Johnson@UCHealth.com to be added to the Complion email group.
