One in five adults in the U.S. experience mental illness each year and suicide is one of the leading causes of death among those aged 10-24 in the U.S. Despite the prevalence of mental illness, cost, stigma, and lack of accessibility often lead to delays in the recognition and seeking of treatment. This grand rounds presentation aims to train and equip current and future physicians with the skills to recognize and respond to signs of a mental health crisis among patients, other students, and future colleagues.
