University of Cincinnati College of Medicine Office of Research

News for the week of December 9, 2019

UC Health Office of Clinical Research.
The next Clinical Research Manager’s Meeting will take place December 13th at 9:30 am in CARE 6870. The clinical research community is encouraged to ask questions and share ideas with their managers to be included as possible future topics on the meeting agenda. Please contact Nate Harris, Nate.Harris@uchealth.com, with questions pertaining to this monthly meeting.

Medical Student Research.
Did you know that the CoM student body has collaborated on 194 publications? 92 of M2-M4 students enrolled during the academic year of 2018-2019 have at least one publication.

Dr. Alvin Crawford to Play Holiday Music on Thursday, Dec. 12.
Join Alvin Crawford, MD, emeritus professor of orthopaedic surgery, as he plays a variety of holiday songs from 11-Noon in the CARE/Crawley Atrium. Dr. Crawford is an accomplished clarinetist and a 2006 recipient of the Daniel Drake Medal, the college's highest honor. A musician since the age of 11, Dr. Crawford attended Tennessee A&I (today Tennessee State University) in Nashville on a music scholarship and graduated with a major in music and chemistry. He is now lead clarinetist in the Queen City Concert Band. Stop by and enjoy the music!

CCTST Retreats, Workshops, and Symposia Matching Funds Program.
Support is available for multidisciplinary retreats/workshops/symposia (on- or off-campus) that will further the mission of the CCTST. Ideally, these events will provide a rich forum for basic, translational, and clinical scientists to interact and develop new initiatives.

Up to $3,000 per event is available from the CCTST, contingent upon the availability of matching funds derived from other sources (typically clinical or research division resources or grants). UC faculty with 80% or greater FTE, including those based at Cincinnati Children’s Hospital Medical Center and Cincinnati Veterans Affairs Medical Center, are generally eligible to apply. Funds are limited and awards are made on a continuing basis. View the RFA for more information. For questions contact Krista.Newland@uc.edu or call 513-803-5593.
