UC Health Office of Clinical Research: ResearchMatch.
ResearchMatch is a free and secure online recruitment tool that helps match willing volunteers with eligible studies at institutions across the country. In an effort to assist the research community to take advantage of the benefits of ResearchMatch, Miranda Gulasy, the University of Cincinnati’s Institutional Liaison, has completed training and is a great resource. Miranda is able to serve as the primary point of contact for ResearchMatch and is happy to assist with any questions or troubleshooting. Training documents and opportunities can be provided upon request as well. To learn more, please contact Miranda Gulasy at Miranda.Gulasy@uchealth.com.

Proposal Budgets—More Than Just a Bunch of Numbers.
This presentation will highlight some key information on the basics of budgeting, the available tools, and most importantly where to turn for assistance. Attendees will review a sample project and walk through the process of creating a budget for that process in a workshop format. This talk is scheduled for Thursday, January 30, 2020, 9-10:30am in the Langsam Library Faculty Enrichment Center room 540F. RSVP: https://eventactions.com/eareg.aspx?ea=Rsvp

CommonApp for UC Medical Students.
The CommonApp provides a central location for research and service opportunities that are available at UCCOM/CCHMC for first-year medical students. This is a general application that includes supplementary fields for specific programs. If you have any questions about the CommonApp during the application process, please email the Research and Industry Relations Committee. Completed applications are due by Friday, February 14th at 10:00pm.

Selecting the Correct Budget Format for Your Application.
The amount of budget detail needed for funding consideration varies based on the type of funding you are requesting. The funding opportunity announcement, application instructions, and the associated form package hold the key for determining the prefect level of budget detail and format needed to apply. Each opportunity announcement includes award budget and project period information; any opportunity-specific budget guidance; and the specific forms appropriate for the opportunity. Some grant programs require all applicants to use a specific budget format. For example, applicants for R35 Outstanding Investigator Awards must provide detailed budgets. Some director awards (DP1, DP2, DP3) and a few other programs simply use the total funds requested information collected on the SF424 (R&R) form and don’t include a budget form at all.
